A short Medicare primer

Original Medicare, Parts A & B, covers about 80% of your healthcare costs after age 65. To fill the remaining 20%, you can choose between Medicare Advantage and Medicare Supplemental Insurance (Medigap). With a Medigap plan you'll need to add a Part D prescription drug plan to cover prescription costs.

Part A Generally Covers

Inpatient hospitalization, skilled nursing, rehabilitation services and long-term hospital services

Out-of-pocket cost – Benefit period deductibles and copays

Premium – Usually premium free with 40 quarters of work credits

Part B Generally Covers

Outpatient: Doctor visits, lab tests, x-rays, durable medical equipment and more

Out-of-pocket cost – Annual deductible plus 20% coinsurance

Premium – Monthly premium, usually deducted from Social Security Benefit

Lifetime monetary penalty for late enrollment, added to the monthly premium

Working with Via Benefits

After a long career, Bill retired in 2019. When he was employed, Bill and his wife Jan were on his company's group plan but the company did not have a retiree plan in place. To help employees with health insurance in retirement the company partnered with Via Benefits.

Bill and Jan were able to speak to a Via Benefits advisor who immediately put them at ease. The advisor helped them understand how Medicare works and their options. Since Medicare is sold as individual plans, Bill and Jan could choose a plan which fit their personal health needs. The advisor assisted them choose their new plans which fit their individual health needs and budget.

For both Bill and Jan using Via Benefits was a quick and personable way to shop for Medicare insurance. Both understood their options and felt confident about their choices.
